Risk Warning:

Our products are complex instruments and come with a high risk of losing money rapidly. 79% of retail investor accounts lose money when trading CFDs with this provider. Funds deposited in a crowdfunding activity are intended entirely for the execution of the financed project. You should consider whether you understand how CFDs and crowdfunding work and whether you can afford to take the high risk of losing your money. Please read our full Risk Disclosure Statement.

Disclaimer:

The products and services offered by 7VEN are not intended for use by residents of any country or jurisdiction where such distribution or use would be contrary to local law or regulation.

The Customer assumes total responsibility for their choices, fully aware of the economic risks associated with any form of use of our Services. Safeguarding the invested capital depends solely on the choices made by the Customer. The results presented relating to the use of our products don't constitute any guarantee concerning hypothetical and similar future profit performance.

In particular, the results are the result of the autonomous choices of users and are potentially not replicable. Similarly, the settings used in achieving the aforementioned results are not intended as investment advice, but only as parameters that have proven to be profitable in the context of tests carried out on historical data: there is no guarantee on the part of 7VEN that the same settings can be effective and profitable in the future or can somehow protect the account from partial or total losses.

It remains under the user's full responsibility to invest only capital that they can afford to lose and adopt settings that respond to prudent and sustainable Money Management policies, protecting their trading account and using the appropriate Stop Loss functions if necessary.
